Drivers Killed in Headon Collision

Two were killed and seven were injured in area traffic accidents over the weekend.

At 11:10 p.m. Saturday Jess Caudle, 55, Oran and Daniel Moore, 17, Scott City, were killed in a collision.

A 1964 Ford sedan, attempted to pass an unidentified vehicle, and struck a 1963 Pontiac sedan driven by Moore headon, the state patrol reported. The Moore vehicle then struck a 1964 Comet driven by Kenneth Page, 69, Scott City.

The accident occurred two miles west of Scott City on route M.

Caudle was taken to the Blasinghoff Funeral Home at Chaffee. Moore was taken to the Blasinghoff Funeral Home at Illinois.

An accident on highway 72, one half mile west of Fredericktown at 9:30 a.m. resulted in injuries to two.

A 1966 Oldsmobile, driven by Dale Walker, 25, Fredericktown, ran off the road into a ditch when the driver turned to help a child in the back seat.

Injured were Barbara Walker, 20, knee cut and Darlene Walker, 2, bruised nose. Both Fredericktown residents were taken to Farmington hospital.

A 1964 Plymouth driven by Phillip James, 26, Charleston, did not stop at a through highway, 7 miles west of Bernie on route H at 11:55 a.m., the patrol said.

A 1961 Comet, driven by Donald Gorden, 20, Bernie, skidded and cut to the right to avoid the car, and ran into a ditch. There was no contact between the cars.

Injured were Howard Phlegley, 28, East St. Louis, Ill., possible back injury, and Kay Margason, 20, East St. Louis, face cuts. They were taken to Dexter Hospital.

Tommy Binkley, 28, Memphis, driver of a 1968 Oldsmobile sedan, reported he did not see a 1967 Honda, driven by Ray Blackburn, 38, Portageville, turned into a service station drive, into the path of the Honda.

The accident occurred on route 162 near Portageville at 6:40 p.m. Saturday.

Blackburn received fractures of both legs and internal injuries. A passenger on the motorcycle, Larry Simmons, 25, Lemont, Ill., suffered fractures of both legs.

The driver of a 1966 Chevrolet, Carl McNeal, 20, Breeseville, fell asleep at the wheel and struck a bridge railing on route 67, eight miles south of Fredericktown, at 5:45 p.m. Saturday.

A child was injured in an accident at 7 p.m. on route 53 south of Poplar Bluff.

A 1965 Ford pickup truck, driven by Ollie Lee, 39, Poplar Bluff, attempted to make a left turn into the path of a 1960 Chevrolet, driven by Robert Reed, 21, Poplar Bluff. The two struck headon.

A passenger in the Reed vehicle, Robert Dale Reed, 2, received a nose injury.

A one-car accident at 4:45 p.m. Friday one mile south of Lutesville on route 51, resulted in bruises for the driver.

A 1970 Hornet, driven by Paul Grindstaff, 23, Mt. Vernon, Ill., overturned when the driver lost control on a curve. He was taken to Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Last Combat Troops Leave

SAIGON (AP) — The last American combat troops in Cambodia pulled back into South Vietnam this afternoon, in effect completing the U.S. withdrawal one day ahead of President Nixon's deadline.

Still in Cambodia but scheduled to leave by midnight Tuesday were a handful of American advisors to some of the 39,000 South Vietnamese troops also still there. Although these Americans also are being pulled out, the South Vietnamese will keep forces beyond the border for an indefinite period to bolster the shaky government of Premier Lon Nol.

Only very light contact was reported as the last mud-caked 1,800 men of the 1st Air Cavalry Division walked or flew across the border north of Saigon, closing out the 60-day drive into enemy munitions and supply dumps that Nixon has called the "most successful" operation of the Vietnam war.

Soviets Expel CBS Correspondent

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government today announced the expulsion of William Cole, the Columbia Broadcasting System's only correspondent in Moscow.

A brief announcement accused Cole of "activities incompatible with the status of a foreign journalist." The announcement gave no further explanation, and Cole said Foreign Ministry officials gave him none when they informed him today of his expulsion.

He said he was given a week to leave. He has been assigned to Moscow since Aug. 1, 1968, and his wife and daughter are here with him.

Cole is the second American journalist to be expelled this month. Stanley Cloud of Time magazine left June 13 after the government refused to extend his visa.

Jim Robinson of Sikeston served as special prosecutor at this morning's proceedings.

Wilson is housed in the same building with Gilmore, but he said his file on the Mathis case was kept in his desk away from the files shared by him and Gilmore.

Hux contended Wilson's ties with the prosecution is an "incurable situation" and it would be "erroneous" if further prosecution of Mathis is made.

Circuit Judge Marshall Craig said he would make a decision in the matter in five days.

Robinson commented prior to today's session it is a "rather unusual" case.

Hux said he thinks the magistrate court's appointment of Wilson was wrong.

It was announced prior to June 2 that Wilson would serve as assistant prosecuting attorney of Scott County effective July 1.

Wilson, along with James E. Moore III of Sikeston, who now serves as assistant prosecutor, and Dan D. Whittle of Sikeston, who is city editor of The Daily Standard, were called to testify in this morning's proceedings.

Whittle testified that he heard Mathis voice objection to Wilson's appointment the morning of June 2 in magistrate court.

Attorney John Hux, who now represents Mathis, contends his client's rights were violated because of the close relationship between Moore, Wilson and Gilmore, who disqualified himself in this case. Attorney

Argument Ends in Stabbing

Lawrence Robinett of 310 Prosperity is reported in good condition today at the Veterans Hospital in Poplar Bluff, where he is being treated for a stab wound in his abdomen.

Police said the man was stabbed early Saturday morning in the mid portion of his stomach. He was first taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital before being transferred to Poplar Bluff for surgery.

Police picked up W.U. Curita, 227 North Handy, Saturday afternoon. They said he admitted the stabbing and said it followed an argument between the two men. Curita told police Robinett threatened him.

Robinett was found Saturday at noon lying in bushes on North West Street.

Rodeo Group Meets Tonight

Sikeston Jaycees will have a general rodeo committee meeting at 7 p.m. tonight on the rodeo grounds.

U.S. officials contend that all Christmas Day when a cease-fire was in effect. But early today three Americans were killed and 11 wounded in a North Vietnamese attack on a night camp of the 5th Mechanized Division's 1st Brigade just south of the demilitarized zone. The command said two of the enemy were killed.

Action elsewhere was light and scattered, with U.S. forces reporting at least 14 wounded, two of them in Cambodia.

South Vietnamese forces reported several clashes with 45 North Vietnamese killed and two captured in a fight two miles south of the demilitarized zone.

Orton Praised as Peace Officer

By CHARLES BRADY CARUTHERSVILLE

Sheriff Lester Stone, of Lake County Tenn. directly across the Mississippi River from Caruthersville, and Chief Deputy Sheriff Wesley Mayo of Pemiscot county testified in this morning's session of Sheriff Clyde Orton under suit trial.

Sheriff Orton is expected to testify in his own behalf this afternoon.

The defense expects to rest its case today.

Sheriff Stone said that as far as his conversation with others was concerned the law enforcement of Pemiscot County was very good.

He said based on previous discussion, Orton has a good reputation as a law enforcement officer.

Stone said that in the course of his duties he had cause to apprehend some persons who had transported liquor into his county.

He said the information that led to these arrests came from Orton's office.

In response to a question put to him by Defense Attorney James E. Reeves, Stone said that he had known Billy Joe Garrett for "quite some time."

He said, "he (Garrett) has no respect for law enforcement officers." This testimony was designed to attack the credibility of a state witness.

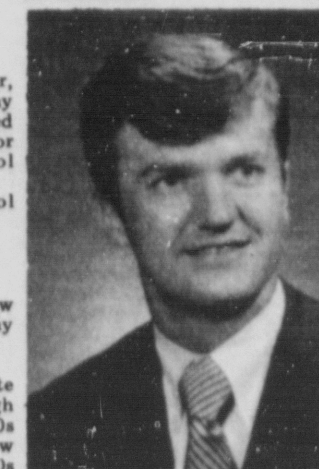

In cross examination by the state, Stone said that Eddie Chilton tried to bribe him in order to allow illegal alcohol to

America Day Hikes Focus on 4th

WASHINGTON (AP) — It is, its sponsors say, going to be just a plain Fourth of July celebration, like in the old days, with fireworks, a speech, some prayers, some band music, some entertainment and a grand display of Old Glory.

Except that in 1970 America, especially when it's designated "Honorary America Day," there will be bigger fireworks, a more important speaker, more music and entertainment and more flags than Grandma ever saw on the town square. And more people.

Just the motive behind an Honorary America Day is suspect in the quarters that have used the same arena—the area of Washington's proudest monuments—to proclaim their dissent, and so this particular Fourth of July celebration also is more controversial than most preceding it in the 194 years since America's birth.

But the Honorary America Day committee made it plain the only speech will be by evangelist Billy Graham and none of the day will be political.

"We've listened to a lot of people the last couple of years," comedian Bob Hope told a news conference today. "We're just asking one day to honor the purpose of the day, he said "is to give the country a lift—to see one mass of entertainment that's on the plus side for our country."

The entertainment, Hope said would be non-political.

"But I've got to talk about Spiro Agnew's golf," he said. "That's the funniest thing going today."

Hope said in addition to comedians like Jack Benny and Red Skelton, invitations also have gone out to more controversial entertainers like the Smothers Brothers and Dick Gregory.

commitment, Hope said, but the Smothers Brothers may accept.

"We're not going to turn this into a rally," Hope said when asked if poet Willen Ginsburg would be on the program. "We want all America represented, all the entertainers. We don't want to sell anything."

The evening program will be carried by at least one network.

"Everybody included in this program is going to be interested in building up America to make people appreciate the great joy of being an American citizen," said J. Willard Marriott, chairman of the event, a restaurant-motel magnate and good friend of President Nixon. Honor America Day's entertainment will be headlined by Bob Hope and the big-name show people.

The day will begin at a patriotic-religious service at the Lincoln Memorial with a speech by Graham, benedictions by ministers of different faiths, and a parade of flags to the Ellipse, the grassy area south of the White House.

President Nixon is in San Clemente, Calif., and won't come back for Honorary America Day. Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's plans haven't been announced, but Marriott says he will not be a speaker.

180 Take Part in Kid's Day

Approximately 180 children took part in Kids Day Saturday afternoon at the high school football field.

They ran forwards, backwards and in sacks; they jumped; pushed a tire and threw a baseball, stopping halfway through the afternoon for hotdogs and cokes which were donated by Sikeston merchants.

The competition was close, several races had to be rerun because of ties and there were two runoff races for the trophies.

In the end, 108 red, white and blue ribbons for first, second and third place were given to 48 children. Some were natural athletes, winning or placing in every event they entered. Others came in first once, and didn't place again.

No one seemed disappointed. The general feeling among children and adults was that it had been a good day for all.

Winners were listed by first, second and third place.

Softball throw: boys, 6-8, David Campbell, Johnny Longstreet, and Barry Love; 9-11, Wayne Turpin, William Kaiser, and Larry Jackson; 12-14, Curtis Bean, Mitchell Walker and Ronnie Hopkins.

Girls, 6-8, Charlotte Beach, Cheryl Whiffen and Celine Wiggins; 9-11, Bobbie Ann Hatchett, Janice Faye Beach, and Vickie Moore; 12-14, Linda Jean Boyd, Margaret Warren, and Deloris Sims.

Standing broad jump: Boys 6-8, Reginald Yarber.

Area Projects Receive Job Training Funds

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Manpower Administration will offer jobs or training, or both, to 463 Missourians through a $382,863 federal grant to 12 projects.

Thirty persons will get on-the-job training in Kansas City. There will be training in various health service occupations for 125 persons in two statewide projects.

In addition, at Kansas City 50 persons will get a year's training as licensed practical nurses.

At Sikeston 18 persons will get 16 weeks of training as surgical technicians through the public schools with a $21,901 grant.

Other projects include: Springfield — Six persons will be trained as office workers, $36,828.

Kennett — Public schools will train 40 as clerk-stenographers, $69,183.

Malden — Forty will be trained as machine operators, $109,138.

Bonne Terre — Twenty trainees as machine operators $58,471, and 40 as combination welders, $71,122.

Flat River — Forty trainees as electronics mechanics, $39,816.

Heckemeyer To Conference

In South Carolina

State Rep. Tony Heckemeyer is one of two representatives of the Missouri general assembly who will attend the fourth annual conference of federal and state water officials Tuesday through Thursday in Charleston, S.C.

Its purpose will be to explore federal and state relationships in water management, its effective use and proper protection and management.

Jefferson City (AP) — Missouri's executive mansion will see its second marriage of a governor's daughter Aug. 29.

That's the date Lynne Heames, daughter of Gov. and Mrs. Warren E. Hearnes, will be married to C. J. Sommerer, University of Missouri law student and son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sommerer of Jefferson City.

The only other governor's daughter married in the present mansion was in the mid-thirties when Henrietta Park Krause, the daughter of the late Gov. Guy B. Park and Mrs. Park, was married.

Draft Advisers Convene

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a call for help from Draft Director Curtis W. Tarr, 107 draft-age advisers to the Selective Service System headed for closed meetings today to work out a list of gripes and recommendations.

Tarr welcomed the group Sunday night with the words, "We need your help." The young advisers, almost all of them male and none over 22, come from the 56 states and territories.

They were to meet in closed briefing sessions all day today, hear remarks by White House counselor Patrick Moynihan Tuesday, participate in the draft lottery drawing Wednesday and present their evaluations and recommendations on the draft system Thursday.

The advisers are representatives of state advisory committees set up by presidential order in June 1969.

Farm Program Funded

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The Office of Economic Opportunity has granted $48,396 to the University of Missouri-Columbia to establish a program to improve the lot of low income farmers in Missouri by self-help activities.

The project will be carried on by the university and the Midcontinent Farmers Association.

L. Clell Carpenter, vice president of the association, said the project will try to determine to what extent low income farmers can benefit from cooperative action and how present cooperatives can meet their needs.

GEMS IN FADED CLIPPINGS

Newspapering has its own peculiar trials and tribulations, but it has its own rewards, too, that can't quite be matched in any other field of endeavor. One of our rewards is the opportunity to bring to the people of the community vital commercial information - what is for sale, how much it costs, and where it can be bought. It is no idle boast that the cornerstone of the free enterprise system is our free and independent press. Likewise it is true that the conduct of government by the people is largely dependent upon the newspaper for information on government and legal transactions, candidates and issues, so that the people can make wise decisions based upon accurate information.

Our commercial advertising, in turn, enables us to gather and publish information about people, places and things - known as "the news." Then we have the privilege to express our independent opinions and thoughts on all manner of things under the heading of Editorials.

Not the least of our joys is that of passing on to our friends various and sundry items which hopefully, may serve to inspire, challenge or to cheer, prompt a chuckle or a smile. We never cease to be amazed-and gratified at the appearance of an old, faded clipping from some cherished hiding place; an old Bible, a treasure chest, a scrapbook or a diary - even a cookbook.

A message found in such an ancient clipping, of unknown vintage or origin, seems most appropriate at this time of year, when so many of our youth have left school to embark upon the rocky road of life. Do you remember it?

"May you have...

Enough happiness to keep you sweet,
Enough trials to keep you strong,
Enough sorrow to keep you human,
Enough hope to keep you happy,
Enough failure to keep you humble,
Enough success to keep you eager,
Enough friends to give you comfort,
Enough wealth to meet your needs,
Enough faith to banish depression,
Enough determination to make each day better than yesterday."

The Colonel of Hardbargain, Braggadocio, Mo., pontificates:

I see where women are demonstrating for equal rights. I believe this is a good idea, for they have had the upper hand too long.

A man needs a friend, not to flatter him, but to help him strengthen his weak points.

STATE GOES ON THE RECORD

From time to time the White House moves from Washington to Key Biscayne, Fla., or San Clemente, Calif., as President Nixon tries to escape the pressures of life in the capital. Similarly, The State Department will in effect relocate in San Francisco for a day - Monday, June 29 - to brief editors and broadcasters attending a foreign policy conference. The list of speakers includes not only Secretary of State William P. Rogers but also seven assistant secretaries and the administrator of the Agency for International Development.

The forthcoming conference (at the San Francisco Hilton) will differ from previous ones in that the ground rules have changed. "Except as otherwise announced at specific sessions," the State Department has announced, "the conference including the question periods will be ON THE RECORD, and cameras and tape recorders may be freely used." Past conferences have operated under the stifling "background only" rule whereby the information presented could be reported only "without attribution to the individual speaker or his agency."

The change from background-only to on-the-record may not be as salutary as it might seem. Various journalists attending a March 1969 foreign policy conference complained of a lack of hard information from officials cloaked in background-only anonymity. It hardly seems likely that candor will become the order of the day when the refuge of anonymity no longer is available. Even so, the conference no doubt will produce some sharp questions. Reporters covering the State Department formally complained on June 10 that Secretary Rogers had held only seven news conferences in his 17 months in office. Only two of these have been held in 1970. The San Francisco conference will offer an opportunity to make up for lost time.

MEADOWLARK

It is a bird of the open fields and green meadows. One would not call it anti-social; it simply prefers the open spaces rather than living near man's activities. Phoebe and robins, barn swallows and wrens enjoy living near the farmstead, but the lark is a bird of open, peaceful spaces.

The lark is a handsome fellow - a plump bird in an impeccable outfit of blended browns and yellows. A buff band divides the crown into equal parts. The black scarf is a stylish note below the sharp, strong bill. The outer tail feathers are white, and when he flies he makes a striking picture above the meadow grasses.

The next is on the ground, woven of dead grasses; usually it has a dome-shaped roof with the entrance on the side. So perfectly does the nest blend with the surroundings that one often comes within two or three feet before the bird flies or hurries away through the grasses.

The male does not help with the incubating, but he sings to his mate while she does the work. After the young leave the nest, however, he helps feed the chicks as they wander through the meadow grasses.

"The lark's on the wing" is part of our language heritage. On a mellow, green-gold day, the slurring, somewhat plaintive notes blend with the spirit of the season.

GETTING UNHOOKED

Loud complaints have been made on the floor of Congress during the last session relative to costly subsidy payments to farmers in the form of price supports - a heavy burden for taxpayers. It is ironic that not only taxpayers are complaining, but so are the farmers, who would like nothing better than to get "unhooked" from the present Federal boondoggle.

Mr. Charles B. Shuman, speaking before the 50th annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation - an organization he has served as President for the past fifteen years - declared that "it is a very sorry state of affairs to have caused farmers to be dependent upon government money for so much of their income."

"It cannot be continued," said Mr. Shuman, "if there is to be a good future for farmers. Consumers and taxpayers look upon these payments in the same light as they look upon welfare payments to the poverty stricken. Many farmers are hooked on payments because the government imposed price in the market has been depressed to such a low level that their only hope of covering production expenses is to add the payments to the market price."

The solution, said Mr. Shuman, is not to continue payments, but to find a way to get unhooked. And he listed three steps to change directions:-

First, he said, the unsuccessful attempts to control production by government management must be terminated. He cited facts and figures to show that the government controls have been worse than useless.

Second, said Mr. Shuman, government funds that have acted as a ceiling to undercut fair market values must be phased out. And third, welfare-type direct payments in lieu of competitive prices must be phased out.

While recognizing that getting unhooked from the present federal farm program will not be altogether easy, Mr. Shuman stated that making the transition to a market price agriculture should not be too difficult once the Congress has agreed on the objective of phasing out government management in agriculture.

"The time for a change is long past due," said Mr. Shuman. "It is time to rid the United States of welfare state policies and philosophies. Time to abandon government policies that force farm families to depend upon welfare type subsidy payments for their income. Time to re-establish a free market agriculture with income derived from profits."

Some card players seem to think slamming them down on the table is half the game.

JOB MARKET SLUMP

The plans of many students, or so we are hearing, to take the summer off to work out their frustrations against the system by devoting themselves to the campaigns of the candidates of their choice in this fall's elections may make good economic as well as political sense.

The job market, from current indications, is in no condition to absorb the masses of young that have flooded it seasonally during the long years of economic expansion. A general cutback in new hiring is showing up in federal surveys of employment potentials.

Curtailed opportunities are having an immediate effect on job-finding programs for needy urban youth, with several major cities already reporting serious problems and on the masses of students still in school who usually seek summer only jobs.

But the cruelest cut of all is to graduates, who in most fields have had it very good in a seller's market for almost as long as current generations can remember.

Recruiting, particularly on-campus, is generally down. Most graduates can still expect to be placed, if no longer so quickly, but few any longer are in a position to pick and choose among choice offers.

There are, however, a few notable exceptions. Prospects continue good for qualified graduates from minority groups, particularly blacks. Once as a population group the first to suffer in bad times, they are still in relatively short supply and still sought after.

The equal opportunity slogan needs updating. Things have changed.

NEW YORK (AP) — CAUTION: Buying cosmetics for a teen-age daughter may be hazardous to your mental health.

I discovered this the other day when I volunteered to pick up my college coed's favorite products at a plush local salon. Along with the makeup I got a shakeup-of-my ego.

Displayed in a setting befitting the crown jewels are cleansers, moisturizers, dullers, bluishers, stabilizers, foundations, finishes, oils, creams and powders.

Somewhat overawed by the array of potions and lotions and by the elegant lady who presided over their commercial distribution, I nervously consulted my list. The dispenser of bottled beauty nodded encouragingly as she selected the called-for items.

"Have you thought of trying our camouflage cream?" she suggested. "And," she added delicately, "perhaps you should consider our special yooceegogion. A stitch in time, you know."

"Oh, these are not for me," I volunteered. "They're for my daughter who's away at school. I don't use anything but lipstick and eyebrow pencil."

Her own perfectly penciled brows shot up in horror and a frown pulled down the corners of her carefully contoured lips. "No makeup!" she exclaimed in refined accents of disbelief. "Come now, we mothers mustn't let our daughters get ahead of us. Makeup would do wonders for you."

She regarded me critically. "The features are good," she concluded, "but we must accent them. You're like a picture without a frame. Let me make you up—you'll see how we can improve you with a little of this and that."

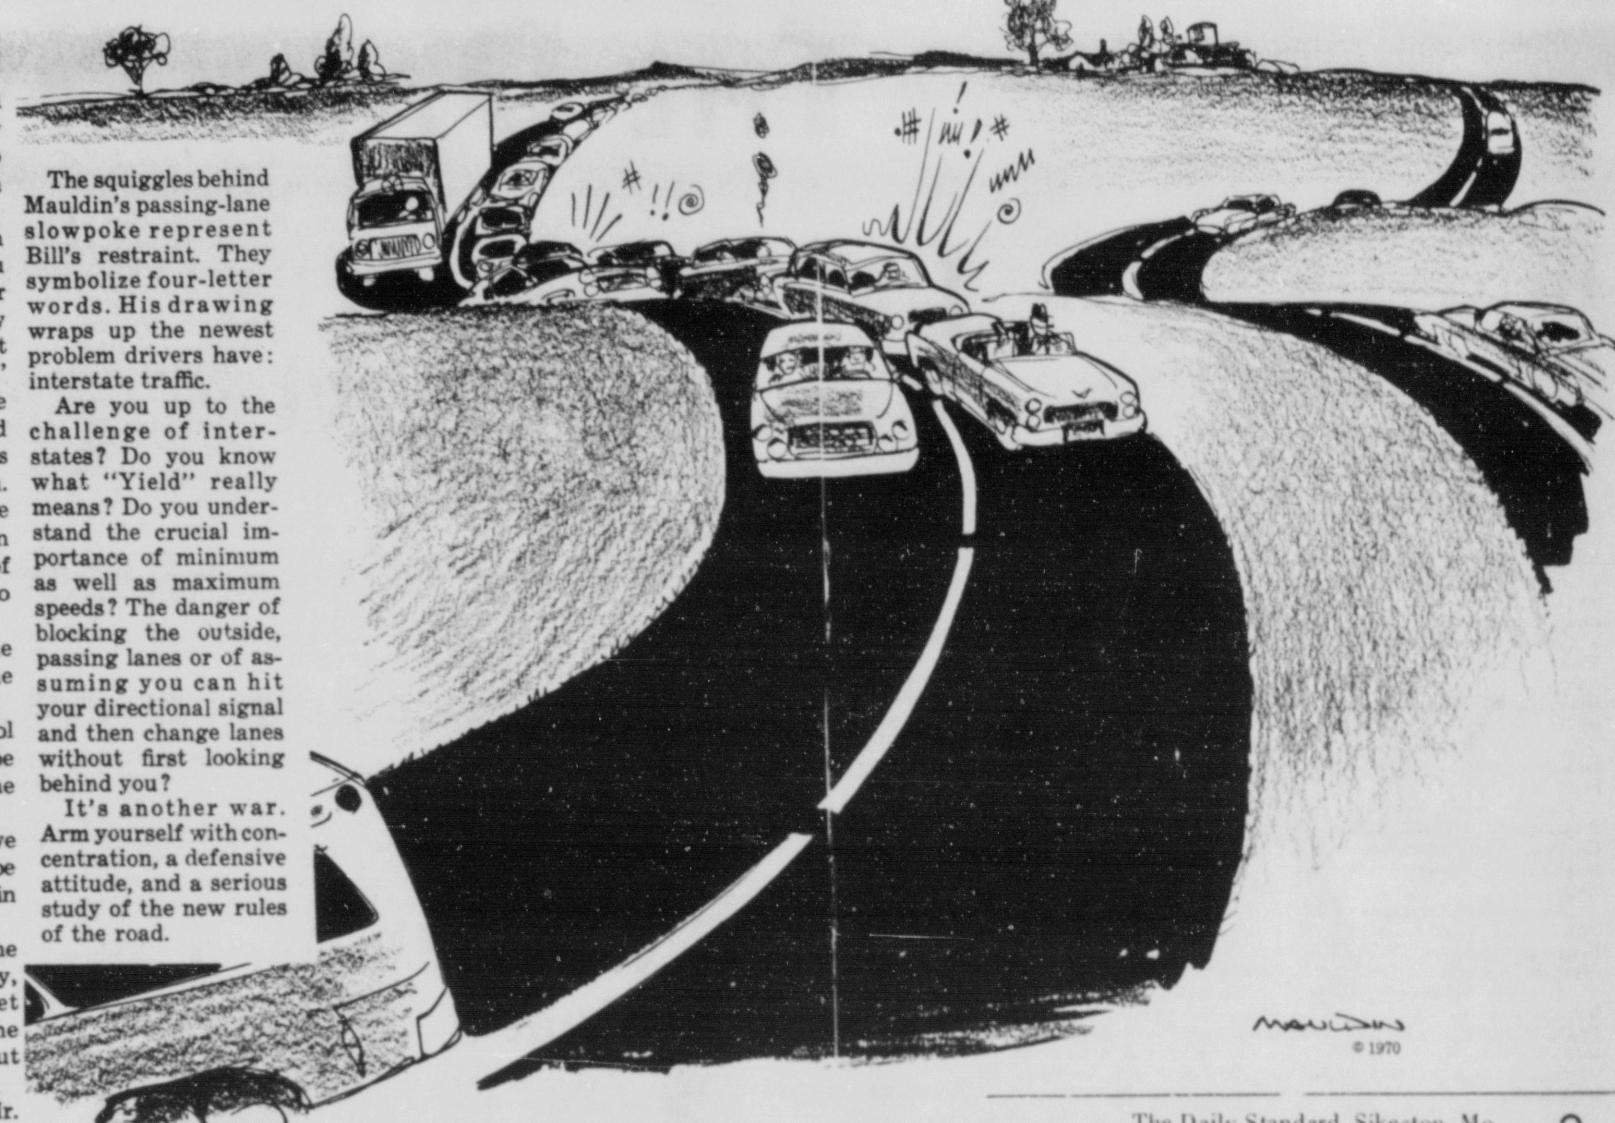

Since even locating my mouth for coffee-drinking purposes is a major accomplishment for the first couple of hours after I get up, performing any task requiring more coordination than that is beyond hope. I firmly declined.

But she didn't give up that easily.

"At least take our little pamphlet and read how we can help you." Well, I've been reading but I haven't figured out how I'd manage to get all the glamor on before it was time to take it off again.

I'm supposed to start with a foam cleanser to open the pores, followed by a freshener to close them; then a concealing base that will cover them so you can't see whether they're open or closed. A special lighterener follows to hide the circles and shadows under the eyes. Atop this goes a blusher for a youthful glow, and if my fingertips are still in working order there's a liquid powder, over which goes a finisher.

I'm afraid I'll just have to remain my unadorned self until somebody comes up with a way of concealing all these layers of makeup into a mask that can be put on and taken off like a wig.

In Defense of All

As unbelievable as it may sound, the directors of the Missouri Municipal League have just voted to defend, by way of a resolution, the Mayor of St.

Louis, A.J. Cervantes, who has been linked by Life Magazine to the St. Louis underground. Since

Mayor Cervantes is a member of the state organization's board, we expect he encountered little difficulty in getting someone to introduce the resolution. We find it difficult to imagine that directors approved it, however.

Mayor Cervantes had been defending himself against the Life article by claiming the magazine slandered both himself and the city of St. Louis. Like wrapping himself in the flag, the Mayor has somehow connected the article in Life with the citizens of St. Louis, only a few of whom are mentioned. Life didn't slander St. Louis or its citizens. It told some details, some of them true, about

Cervantes' non-public life. When

Mayor Cervantes tries to connect himself with the city of St.

Louis in attacking the Life article, he is whistling in Dixie.

There's a chronic shortage of office supplies. The man in charge of the supplies, Charles

Murray, blames this on budget limitations. The tight budget, however, hasn't prevented the

OAS from doubling the size of its fleet of sleek, chauffeur-driven cars for the top officials.

Explains Murray: "Sure, we take

he was trying to stop it.

Proposed Move For Family Moves 13-year - old Daughter To Tears

Dear Ann Landers: Two weeks ago my husband was offered a beautiful promotion. It means we will have to move from Louisville to Omaha by September 1. We love Louisville, but how well I remember that we hated to leave St. Louis to move here. And we loved Evansville before that. It's been the story of my life.

Our 13-year-old daughter hasn't stopped crying since her father told her about the upcoming transfer. Joyce hasn't eaten enough to keep a bird alive. She is begging us to let her live with her best friend's family for one year - until she is ready to enter high school. Then she will join us in Omaha.

Joyce has an 11-year-old sister, Molly, who is looking forward to the move, although she has many friends here. Molly is an "A" student, which Joyce is not.

I don't know how much longer I can put up with Joyce's moaning around the house and crying. Her best friend's mother has telephoned me to say Joyce is welcome to stay with them for a year and she hopes I say yes because her daughter has been crying too. Please advise. - Mrs. Van Oriented

Dear Mrs. Van Oriented: I tell those two girls to turn off the waterworks. They are wasting the natural resources. I hope you won't care in and let Joyce have her way. A 13-year-old girl belongs with her family. And Omaha isn't exactly Outer Mongolia. There are good schools and friendly people there.

The challenge of making a place for herself in a new city will be a healthy experience for Joyce. Don't allow her to evade it.

Dear Ann Landers: You are right most of the time but when you are wrong - oh baby, are you wrong! I refer to your comment to "Can't Get A Word In Edgeways." You said a person faced with a non-stop talker should end a senseless conversation by frankly saying it's time to stop. Obviously you have never lived in Ottawa, Canada.

All the women up here are born talking and they don't let up until a physician declares them officially dead. They learn from their mothers (who learned from THEIR mothers) the skillful art of talking "so" or "and" and "but" to the end of every sentence. This enables them to hold the floor indefinitely.

I have listened to these non-stop talkers all my life and I can tell you there is no polite way to get in your say. I learned long ago, if you live in Ottawa, manners be damned. The only way to fight these females is to break in when they come up for air. Even then you can't wait forever because in addition to having superb voices they have fantastic lungs and can go without breathing for incredible periods of time. (They could all swim the English Channel.)

So please, Ann Landers, when you hand out advice, be aware that the advice that works in Chicago might not work in Ottawa. The yakky yak of the women up here is indeed a curse. I read a story in Vogue a couple of years ago about five women who underwent plastic surgery and said they'd do it again," she recalls. "Think of the 2,500 stitches around the face, the pain, the money, the days and weeks of isolation before they could go out. Why the hell do they do that was the main question that I set out to answer."

Though she didn't find a definite answer, a pattern did emerge, reports the brown-eyed 5 foot 10 author of four published novels. "The further you are from a sense of who you are; the more emphasis on how you look," she explains. "The more involved a woman was with beauty beyond a certain level the greater was her infantilism." Of a period spent at a luxurious beauty retreat for women she remembers, "It was a kindergarten - a group of 'girls' accustomed to living in a world of toys, themselves the biggest bauble in the household."

Americans' preoccupation with products and rituals begins with THOROGOOD AND NOBLE SYDNEY (AP) - Mr. Thorogood has followed Mr. Noble as station officer of the ambulance service at Gunnedah, a country town.

Summer is easy livin' time. Chores go right on requiring attention, but most of us want to spend less time in the kitchen. The "work slowdown" fits in just fine with seasonal meal patterns ... during the hot weather most people prefer lighter, simpler fare. And versatile molasses goes into sauces that cheer up plain foods.

At the barbecue, molasses really shines. West Indies molasses goes into Barbecue Sauce Americana, a perfect basic basting sauce that you can use for chicken, burgers, franks. Easy to make, too. The molasses combines with mustard, vinegar, tomato sauce, minced onion, and zesty herbs. Make a pint or quart at a time and keep what you don't immediately use ... it molasses. Stir in remaining ingredients. Pour into jar; cover no sulphur dioxide or artificiality. Use to brush chicken, preservatives, molasses offers hamburgers or frankfurters, beautifully sweet taste and no drying or broiling.

Tropical Pickled Fruits add cups - or enough for 4 broiler-flair to simple barbecue meats fryer chickens, or 2 dozen and just about any other meat, hamburgers or frankfurters. The fruits dress up broiled chicken, roasts, steaks, chops, doubled for approximately 1 quart Barbecue Sauce.

MOLASSES ICE-CREAM SODA
2 tablespoons molasses
Milk
1 scoop vanilla, chocolate or coffee ice cream
Club soda, chilled
Put molasses in 12-ounce glasses; fill half full with milk. Add ice cream; stir vigorously. Fill to Combine molasses with milk, add a scoop of ice cream, and fill with club soda. The youngsters will love the fine taffy flavor. Molasses is considered by many food experts to be nature's most nutritious sweetener ... it's an energy food having a high content of natural sugar and iron, and it contains calcium and vitamin B1 as well.

Molasses, melted butter, sugar and evaporated milk make a great sundae sauce. Serve it with vanilla ice cream and top with pecan halves for The same sauce is great over simple foods.

BARBECUE SAUCE AMERICANA
1/4 cup prepared mustard
1/4 cup molasses
1/4 cup vinegar
1 cup (8 ounces) tomato

VERSATILITY PLUS ... Flavorful molasses goes into a variety of summertime treats. Foreground, clockwise: Tropical Pickled Fruits, Praline Sundae Sauce, Molasses Ice-Cream Soda, burgers with Barbecue Sauce Americana.

1 cinnamon stick
6 maraschino cherries, cut in quarters
Drain syrup from peaches and pineapple into saucepan. Add 1/4 teaspoon of the cloves. Stick fruit with remaining cloves. Bring syrup to a boil; boil rapidly until reduced to 1/3 cup. Add the molasses, vinegar, and cinnamon stick; simmer 5 minutes. Pour over combined fruits. Cool. (Flavor improves on standing.)
YIELD: 1 quart.

TROPICAL PICKLED FRUITS
1 can (29 ounces) cling peach fruit, enough for several meals sliced
1 can (20 ounces) pineapple and the fruit, too, stores well.
Ice cream treats are a favorite with the youngsters all summer long ... nourishing Molasses Ice-Cream Soda is a snap to make.

PRALINE SUNDAY SAUCE
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup molasses
1/2 cup evaporated milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup pecan halves

Melt butter or margarine in saucepan; add sugar and molasses. Bring to a full rolling boil; reduce heat and boil 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; stir in evaporated milk, vanilla and pecan halves. Serve warm or cool over ice cream or cake.

College News
UNIVERSITY, Miss., - Robert B. Fuchs of Sikeston was among 556 students listed on the Honor Roll at the University of Mississippi for the second semester of the 1969-70 session, according to Dr. Robert B. Ellis, registrar.

He had a GPA of 3.60. Edward Dwayne Throop of 609 Carroll Street, has been accepted for admission at Freed-Hardeman College, Henderson, Tennessee, for the fall semester beginning September 7, 1970. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Throop.

Throop is a graduate of Sikeston High School and is planning to major in Business or Music while attending Freed-Hardeman College. He attends the Shady Acres Church of Christ.

Freed-Hardeman College is a fully-accredited liberal arts Christian junior college founded in Henderson, Tennessee, in 1908.

The Amati, Guarneri and Stradivari families, who worked in Cremona, Italy, from the 16th to the 18th centuries, created the world's best violins, notes The World Almanac. Their secret, in part, was absence of haste. They sun-dried carefully chosen Balkan wood; they gave their fabled varnishes time to sink in; and they were great artisans dedicated to making the best possible musical instruments.

A Skein of Yarn
The waggy fellow is roundly done in the single crochet stitch and stuffed with lots of batting. In spite of his generous girth, it only takes one skein of yarn to make him. He is in the pink, using 4-ply worsted, with a dash of yellow for the hat. You will need some black felt for his feet and ears. His face is embroidered.

A Tossable Toy
Amiable piggy loves to play with kids. They can hug him, use him as a pillow or toss him around like a football and he will love every minute of it. Free instructions are available by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to this newspaper along with your request for Leaflet PC 1794.

AP Newsfeatures
Now isn't any too early for you home sewers to start planning your fall wardrobe, select your patterns and choose your fabrics. One thing for sure: you'd better plan on buying plenty of materials since the word for fall fashion is long, longer, longuette, the package. Don't use a stiff Long vests, long jackets, long coats and long tops pulled over fabric for an easy, flowing style: try a jersey or a soft fabric instead.

Riegel fabrics adds these tips for working with the many new fabrics. Be sure to choose the right fabric for your pattern. Most patterns have fabric suggestions on the package. Don't use a stiff Long vests, long jackets, long coats and long tops pulled over fabric for an easy, flowing style: try a jersey or a soft fabric instead.

The right thread for your fabric is important, especially if it's a knit or stretch fabric. The special new polyspun threads with more rhinestone-buttoned polyester give are ideal for knits.

Measure your pattern for fit before you cut. Always measure every pattern at bust, waist and hips to insure perfect fit.

Adjust your machine to your fabric. With the new fake-furs make sure your needle is extra-large. The tension and pressure feel of elegant silks, velvets, furs also may need adjustment. When and jerseys without any of their care problems, thanks to new miracle fibers and polyesters, naturally: don't stretch it.

Press as you go along. Keep resistant; however, be sure to read your ironing board and press instructions on the hangtags first. Each part as you go along. Be sure Donna Miller, home sewing author of the iron is set at the proper thority and fashion director for temperature for synthetics.

TALL TROUBLE
BLACKDOWN, England (AP) Army recruit Michael Venables is a chap that girls look up to. At 16 he is 6 feet 10 inches tall and still growing.

The Royal Army Ordnance Corps has had to find him custom-made uniforms, boots and bed. Said Mike: "My one trouble is getting through doors. I keep forgetting to duck and have bruises all over my head."

Love is ...
... trying to cook like his mother does.

Best of

Potlatch Pitchers Zero Ste. Genevieve

The Potlatch-Forresters collected eight big runs in the opener off the two hit performances from Sorrells, Dambach, and LeGrand. Sikeston scattered thirteen hits off of the St. Genevieve's Bollinger, while Sikeston's Joe Davis held the St. Genevieve battery to six hits.

The second game proved to be as rough on the visitors as did the opening game, as Don Miller fired a no-hit, 4-0 shut-out. Only two walks mared the near perfect performance of the Sikeston hurler. Charlie Dye, Stan Sorrells, and Less Schatzley anchored the Sikeston offense with a combination of seven hits. Dye and Rodney LeGrand collected triples for extra base hits, and Don Miller added a double. Potlatch opened the first inning with three runs off of four straight singles and added the final run in the sixth as Miller scored from second after a single from Sorrells. Kettinger suffered the loss for the visiting St. Genevieve squad while the victory was collected by Miller.

Coach N. P. McDaniel's Legion squad will host three games during the week, before moving into Paris, Tenn. on Sunday. Tuesday, Sikeston will face Dexter at 7:30, Wednesday Poplar Bluff at 7:30, and Thursday Paducah at 7:30. Sunday's game at Paris Tenn. will begin at 1:00.

Soybean Gains Noted Under
New Supports

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has issued a fact sheet listing what it calls "selected items of progress" made under the agency's programs since the first of the year.

Apparently referring to one of its first actions more than a year ago when the administration decided to lower soybean price support rates, the department pointed to the currently strong oilseed market as a prime example of progress on the farm front.

"Recent actions of the department have made U.S. soybeans aggressively competitive in the market place, resulting in sales of record quantities with the largest growth in domestic use ever seen in one year," the report said.

Farmers placed fewer 1969 crop soybeans under price support loans, the report said, and now are receiving larger prices on the free market, an increase from $2.25 per bushel national average last October to $2.52 in May, the department said.

The report also pointed to the general rise in U.S. farm exports expected for the year ending June 30—a total of about $6.5 billion, compared with $5.7 billion in 1968-69.

"Export expansion work is taking two major directions: improved access to markets and accelerated market development activities," officials said.

The report also mentioned an increase in government food stamp programs for needy families from 3.6 million persons participating last December to 5.9 million in May.

Other areas mentioned as departmental activities the past six months or so included advances in pesticide control, bovine brucellosis eradication, hog cholera control, stepped-up housing and other loan programs in the Farmers Home Administration, further steps to implement the Wholesome Meat Act of 1967, expanded conservation and development programs, and removal of budget restrictions on 25 small watershed projects.

Mrs. Bass Says
GOP Leaders
Snubbed Her

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Mrs. Doris Bass, St. Louis alderwoman and Republican candidate for the nomination for U.S. senator, has charged she was "ostracized" from the party greeting President Nixon when he visited St. Louis Thursday.

Mrs. Bass blamed Elmer Smith, state Republican chairman, who, she said, ignored her letters and phone calls. She said Smith and her opponent for the nomination, John Danforth — were trying to convince national party leaders that no other candidates were running except Danforth.

Smith said that there was no greeting party as such but some party leaders were given front row seats at the national Jaycees convention where Nixon spoke. He said he sympathizes with Mrs. Bass but added that Danforth was given a front row seat and she was not because he is state attorney general.

RICHARD ADAMS

LOUIS - Richard Lonnie Adams, 24, died Sunday at 11:30 a.m. in the St. Louis county hospital. He was born Aug. 14, 1945 in Cairo.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Doris Mae Adams of San Antonio, one son, Richard Adams of Sikeston; one brother, Bill Adams of Charleston; three sisters, Mrs. Reeder Pittman of St. Louis, Mrs. Henry Murphy of Berkeley, and Mrs. Leroy Woodard of Dover, Del.; his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Isabelle Adams of Covington, Tenn.; and his paternal great grandmother, Mrs. Emma Line Price of Covington.

The body is at McKim's Funeral home in Charleston. Services will be Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the chapel with the Rev. Clyde Livingston, pastor of the Southside Baptist church officiating.

Burial will be in Oak Grove cemetery.

V. J. (SHIEK) Jones

VINSON JONES

Vinson John (Shiek) Jones, 54, 111 East Wakefield, died at 11:45 a.m. Sunday in Missouri Delta Community hospital.

He had been employed in the men's wear department of the Buckner-Ragsdale company store since 1941.

He was born Jan. 22, 1916 in Columbus, Ky.

He is survived by his wife, the former Vanita Fenimore; two sons, Mike and Stephen, both of Sikeston; two brothers, Harry and Buford Jones, both of Sikeston; two sisters, Mrs. E.N. Leach of Sikeston and Mrs. Buree Medley of Key Largo, Fla.; and three grandchildren.

The body is at Welsh Funeral home where services will be Tuesday at 2 p.m. with the Rev. Joseph H. Wagner, pastor of the First United Methodist church, officiating.

Burial will be in Memorial Park cemetery.

Some 30,000 miniature planets called asteroids orbit between Mars and Jupiter. The largest, Ceres, is only about a fifth the diameter of Earth's moon. One with an orbit that brings it close to the Earth is named Geographos, after the National Geographic Society.

lags behind the movies, and will stay behind. But I think the movies have progressed so much and I think the networks and the advertisers realize you have to catch up with the times.

Norman Felton, a tall, thin, bearded man whose accomplishments include "Dr. Kildare," "Mr. Novak," and "Eleventh Hour," is executive producer of "The Psychiatrist" segment of NBC's "Four in One."

"We did some research into the reason why people go to doctors," Felton said. "I thought the biggest reason would be respiratory ailments. You know what it is? Loneliness. A patient may say his arm hurts or something, but he goes because he is lonely. These are the kinds of things we'll be exploring."

Hal Holbrook leaves behind his portrayal of Mark Twain to become "The Senator" in a new segment of "The Bold Ones" on NBC, replacing the police show in the three-part series.

Holbrook said scripts are being written that deal with the political influence of the Mafia and the compromises a senator is sometimes forced to make to accomplish anything.

The networks have been timid and the medium needs to face issues within the framework of entertainment, even if it is only the essence of reality.

The danger exists that many shows will pop out on the brave words of the producers and the public will become further disillusioned. The best intentions have succumbed in the past to workable formulas for rating success.

Then there is television's overkill. We have all sat through the glut westerns, detectives, quiz shows and every other fad tube has overindulged in. The public yawns, ratings plunge, and there will go realism.

What is needed, of course, is balance. That's why it was refreshing to hear one producer say, "With all the relevance this year, we're just going to have fun. We're not going to be relevant at all."

Nasser Arrives In Soviet Union

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser arrived in the Soviet Union today and was expected to discuss with Soviet leaders the new American Middle East peace proposals and his country's defense needs.

The Arab leader's visit came in the wake of statements by the Arab League that they would sabotage any effort at reaching a political settlement between Arab governments and Israel.

On the battle fronts, Israeli warplanes raided Jordan and southeast Lebanon Sunday in retaliation for Arab guerrilla attacks that killed one civilian and wounded two civilians and two policemen. The Israeli air force also kept up its day-and-night attacks on Egyptian posts along the Suez Canal.

The military command in Tel Aviv said its planes attacked Arab guerrilla strongholds on Mt. Hermon in southeast Lebanon for 35 minutes and hit guerrilla bases in Jordan three times Sunday. Large numbers of planes also bombed intermittently along the canal during the day, and the strikes continued through the night.

Gas Shortage in Dexter Predicted

DEXTER - The Missouri Utilities Co., natural gas supplier for this area has been notified by Texas Eastern Pipe Line Co., that a request for 3,000,000 additional cubic feet of natural gas for the 1970-71 winter season has been denied.

In addition, Texas Eastern stated that this shortage of gas will last from two to five years. "As many people know, last winter was the first winter in 10 years that we had to interrupt any dual fuel customers. Previous to this time we were able to buy excess gas to meet extreme weather conditions," a spokesman said.

"Since this is no longer possible our large interruptible gas users have been notified in person by representatives of the Missouri Utilities Company to expect interruptions several times this coming winter," the spokesman added.

"Some large schools in this area who did not have standby fuel had to close school and send the children home last winter."

CAIRO - The E. L. Bruce Company, Inc., plant north of Cairo on route 51, will shut down operations for 60-90 days according to plant manager W. B. Winter.

Winter said that about 85 employees would be affected by the move. These employees start on a week's vacation tonight.

Reason for the shutdown was said to be the general condition of the flooring market, nationwide. The Bruce plant makes hardwood flooring.

"It looks better already," Winter said. "Building permits are improving, and that's directly related to us."

Winter said that the temporary closing shouldn't result in any permanent layoffs.

867 Fine on Driving Charge

CHARLESTON - Walter Bryars, 26, of East Prairie was fined $67 and given a 20-day suspended jail sentence in city court this morning on a charge of careless and reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

Helen DeLine, 58, of Charleston was fined $20 for speeding. Sharon Smith Huston, 22, of Austin, Tex., was fined $18 for failure to yield right of way and being involved in an accident. Walter Spence, 19, of Charleston, was charged with common assault and paid a $19 fine. Matthew Wallace, 43, Salisbury, Md., forfeited $15 bond for public intoxication.

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) -

Missouri will end this fiscal year Tuesday midnight still in the black but gray will be showing.

There may be no more than a million dollars left over in a budget that this year totaled $638 million in general revenue. Budget Director John C. Vaughn said Friday, that makes the outlook for the coming fiscal year just that much more bleak.

As of Friday total general revenue receipts for this year came to $606,997,363. For the full year Vaughn had estimated collections of $613,376,618. So with two days of collections left the state general revenue fund is $6,378,655 short of the estimate.

Vaughn said he thinks that amount will be received—or almost that much. Even if the last two days of collections do produce more than $6 million that still will only leave a carryover of around $15 million.

He expects state agencies and institutions to turn back about $15 million from this year's budget but the amount won't be known until around Aug. 1, after such expected June bills as utility costs and incidental purchases have been cleared. Last year the so-called lapse of unused funds came to around $18 million but Vaughn said he did not expect that much this time.

With all but some income tax estimate payments in, the total income tax collections during the fiscal year came to $170,815,415, or $2,600,415 more than Vaughn anticipated.

That small margin above anticipated income tax revenues lost all its gleam because of an overshadowing $9.25 million drop in sales tax receipts under the anticipated level.

The totals for income tax and sales tax can be considered final for this fiscal year, Vaughn said. He looked for a little help, about $1 million, from liquor and beer licenses and taxes, perhaps half a million from interest on invested funds and a bit here and there from other taxes or fees.

"I hope we'll be fairly close," he said. Vaughn would say when asked Friday about closing out at the level he had predicted almost a year ago.

The cigarette tax of 9 cents a package, all earmarked for school purposes, produced $46,511,458 through Friday.

Vaughn said he thought the last two days would come close to, but not reach, the $49 million that had been used as a top estimate by the administration. Some others had predicted the year's cigarette tax receipts up to $58 million.

Friday, $914,458 came in from the cigarette tax but Vaughn said he didn't expect that much for either Monday or Tuesday — the last two days of the fiscal year.

If this year's revenues to reach $613 million-plus as was predicted, leaving a carryover of $15 million...

If state agencies lapse as much as $15 million in unspent funds...

If next year's general revenue prediction holds up in a shaky economy and produces the anticipated $609.76 million, up to a little over $626 million and the Legislature enacted appropriations of $624,194,746 earlier this month.

That's why Vaughn calls the coming year's financial outlook bleak.

K of C State Officers Installed

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Charles J. Kolp, of Jefferson City, was installed Sunday as deputy of the Missouri Council of the Knights of Columbus at the Old Cathedral in St. Louis.

The installing officer was The Most Rev. Joseph A. McNicholas, auxiliary bishop of St. Louis and newly appointed state chaplain.

Other state council officers installed: Grodon S. Williamson, Bowling Green, state secretary; Ralph A. Holt, Glasgow, state treasurer; Michael Harris, St. Joseph, state advocate, and Edward F. Gorman Jr., Mount Vernon, state warden.

Some 300 persons attended the installation ceremonies.

About 450 persons attended a testimonial dinner Saturday evening honoring the outgoing state deputy Robert A. Karsznia, of St. Louis.

Father and Son Drown in Lake

TROY, Mo. (AP) - A father and son from the St. Louis area drowned in Lincoln Lake Sunday.

Authorities said John J. Kaupen, 19, apparently was attempting to swim across the 60-acre lake in Cuivre River State Park when he suffered a seizure and went under.

His father, Lloyd Kaupen, 53, of Florissant, Mo., disappeared while attempting to swim to aid his son.

Kaupen's wife and daughter witnessed the tragedy. Young Kaupen's body was recovered about an hour later.

Drugging operations were to continue today for the father's body.

Highway Chief Tapped to Head Katy Railroad

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Reinald N. Whitman, federal highway administrator, was named Friday as the new president of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad, the firm announced.

John W. Barriger, president since 1955, said Whitman's resignation was to be announced in Washington. Whitman, 60, was named to the federal post as Secretary of Transportation on Feb. 24, 1969.

Whitman is former general manager of the Great Northern Railway, headquartered in St. Paul, Minn. He is a native of Saskatchewan, Canada.

Barriger, 71, became president of Katy after retiring from the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad. He will remain on the Katy's executive board until the end of the year. Whitman's appointment is effective July 15.

Fall TV Shows Go Heavy on Relevance

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - The fall television season, now in production here, is characterized strongly by a drive for reality and relevance.

The networks have swept aside many taboos, and relevance is the subject uppermost in the minds of producers and performers.

Nearly a dozen new shows promise to tackle such contemporary issues as drugs, campus riots, the political influence of the Mafia and the Mexican-American movement.

"Dan August," a new police show on ABC, goes beyond the usual who-dunnit to investigate the murder of a union leader and the crackup of a Negro passing for a white.

Bruce Plant Shuts Down

CAIRO - The E. L. Bruce Company, Inc., plant north of Cairo on route 51, will shut down operations for 60-90 days according to plant manager W. B. Winter.

Winter said that about 85 employees would be affected by the move. These employees start on a week's vacation tonight.

Reason for the shutdown was said to be the general condition of the flooring market, nationwide. The Bruce plant makes hardwood flooring.

"It looks better already," Winter said. "Building permits are improving, and that's directly related to us."

Winter said that the temporary closing shouldn't result in any permanent layoffs.

Congress was held up by a volatile debate on the slavery issue that wasn't resolved until the compromise that let Missouri enter the Union as a slave state, while Maine entered as a free state.

Missourians celebrated statehood in both 1820 and 1821. And now, 150 years later, they are again celebrating it in two years.

During 1971, a score of local celebrations will commemorate the event. This year in September, the Landmark Association in St. Louis will hold a dinner commemorating the first meeting of the Missouri General Assembly in St. Louis' Missouri Hotel 150 years ago.

SAVING CAN BE SWEET AND

Most of us want to save money. Many of us do—sometimes regularly and systematically; more often rarely or sporadically. Far too many of us don't save at all.

Yet, there is a good, sound, easy way to save. Regularly. Systematically. Painlessly. Safely.

Simply sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan for the purchase of U. S. Savings Bonds — the plan that has worked financial wonders for millions of Americans since 1941.

It's easy. Just authorize your payroll office to deduct a certain amount from each paycheck, selecting the denomination Bond desired.

Savings Bonds now pay 5 percent, compounded semiannually, when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months. E Bonds earn 4.01 percent, the first year; thereafter, 5.20 percent, if held to maturity.

It's painless. You can start your savings program with as little as $3.75 per payday for an E Bond.

It's automatic. Once you decide on how much you want to invest, your Bonds start stacking up automatically.

It's handy. In an emergency, you can easily cash some of your E Bonds at your bank.

It's safe. Your Savings Bonds are fully guaranteed by the U. S. Treasury. You will never get back one penny less than the amount you put in — plus good interest which adds to the cash value of your investment every six months.

It's loss-proof. There's a microfilm record of every Bond purchased and the Treasury will replace any Bond that may be lost, stolen, or destroyed — at no cost to the owner.

It's prudent. While you are building a nest egg for the future requirements of your family — a new home, car, vacation, education — you are helping your Government to fight inflation and to protect the value of the dollar.

President Nixon said recently, "Enrollment in a payroll Savings Bond program is a good individual and collective defense against the causes of inflation. Regular purchases contribute to the financial security of the individual and the family, as well as to the fiscal strength of the nation."

So, help yourself as you help your country. Start saving the sweet and easy way — with U. S. Savings Bonds.

BABOON TRESPASSERS

MIDDLEBURG, South Africa (AP) — A large troop of baboons, ignoring signs that "trespassers will be prosecuted," has moved into the army's 650-acre training grounds near here.

From this sanctuary they are raiding maize (corn) crops and frustrating farmers who are unable to pursue them when they return to the training area. The baboons have even had a population explosion and boosted their numbers to about 200.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT YOUR PRESCRIPTION:

From your dentist?

The use of prescriptions in dentistry is a fairly recent development. Due to the discovery and application of certain types of drugs, the practice is rapidly expanding. Tranquilizers, because of their apprehension-curbing nature, have proved helpful with patients undergoing major dental work. By relaxing the patient in this way, the dentist can go about his work more efficiently. Analgesics and antibiotics are also proven aids in dental therapy. They speed healing and prevent or fight infection. These new applications of prescription drugs demonstrate the diverse role pharmaceuticals play in our lives. Now, when your dentist prescribes, you receive the same benefits of modern medical research as when your physician prescribes. And when you have regular physical examinations don't neglect to have your teeth checked. Make an appointment with your dentist when you make one with your doctor. As a matter of fact, why not phone for an appointment today?

For the highest pharmaceutical standards, low prices consistent with quality and the personal attention you can always depend upon, bring your prescriptions to

Tenate Power

You're paying $350 a month for a luxury apartment. The air conditioning doesn't work and the plumbing leaks. Until recently, you might not have grinned but you bore it. Now you organize a tenants union and protest as loudly as you can.

Rent strikes and tenant militancy used to be limited to the slums. But in cities all across the nation, middle and upper income tenants are organizing to fight deteriorating services and spiraling rents.

The Chicago-based Urban Research Corp. studied dozens of such collective actions last year. It found a surprising one-quarter of the protesters to be middle and upper income renters. "The rights won by the poor — largely through the work of Office of Economic Opportunity legal service lawyers — are filtering up to the rich," says Mrs. Thea Flaum, one of the report's authors. "Usually, it's the other way around."

Tenants unions are being organized from New York to San Francisco and in such unlikely places as Bridgeport, Conn., and Charlotte, N.C., to run strikes and to bargain with landlords. A National Tenants Organization claims 140 member groups — with more joining.

Most involve low-income tenants, but a growing number include the middle class. The NTO also has tried to mobilize students as allies in putting pressure on landlords.

Rent strikes first achieved national attention in 1963 and 1964. Jesse Gray, a black militant who had been agitating against slum housing for more than a decade, organized a strike of residents of some 150 Harlem tenements. That strike failed — but it produced a weapon that has been successful against operators of both publicly and privately owned housing. In St. Louis last year, a rent strike against the local housing authority lasted nine months.

Substantial boosts in rents led to the rebellion of middle and upper income tenants. A sharp housing shortage gave landlords the opportunity to raise rents to keep up with higher costs. Charles W. Sherren, an official of a Washington property management firm, put it this way: "I think housing is where the average person comes face to face with inflation in its most striking form — with a rent increase. Organizing this way is the easiest way for them to fight inflation." Tenants of one Washington luxury building — more than half of them retired persons — have refused to pay monthly increases of from 17 to 30 percent.

In the past landlords had the upper hand in dealing with their tenants. But state and local laws are being rewritten to give some legal sanction to rent strikes, usually where there is a housing code violation. About 15 states have laws providing for a form of rent withholding. Michigan, Illinois and New Jersey, among others, have laws forbidding retaliatory eviction of tenants who report housing code violations.

Rent controls are being sought in some areas. New York is the only major city with rent controls left over from World War II. In April, 1969, it enacted a law to limit rent increases on 375,000 apartments that were not covered by old law — bringing the total covered to 1.7 million of the city's 2.7 million housing units.

But landlords and some housing experts blame New York's rent control law for contributing to the deterioration and abandonment of badly needed housing. They say controls prevent landlords from getting the fair return needed for maintenance of property. Given the combination of a housing shortage and inflation, rents and tenant militancy are certain to increase.

Corner on Questions

By PASTOR DON WILSON (Bethel Baptist Church, Dearborn Heights, Michigan)
QUESTION: REGARDING HIS BETRAYAL, WERE JESUS' DISCIPLES DISCERNING?

ANSWER: Previous examination discovered the apostles unsuspecting. This is commendable. The Bible teaches us to be discerning not suspicious. Christians should know right from wrong, light from darkness, and Christ from anti-Christ; nevertheless, the apostles failed the test in discerning Jesus' betrayer. Because God commands, "Try the spirits whether they are of God," the apostles' neglect is lamentable. Although told three times, the apostles discerned not who would betray our Lord. When the betrayer departed, the unlighted apostles thought Judas was going to supply their needs or give something to the poor. While Scripture teaches, "Have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them," the apostles inadvertently approved Judas' satanic intentions. Like modern Christians, they did not differentiate between light and darkness.

Without devotion to Scripture, Christians will walk in darkness. God says, "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction for instruction in righteousness;" however, whenever they follow

The Daily Standard, Sikeston, Mo.
(B) Monday, June 29, 1970

personalities rather than principles, their criterion is results instead of God's Record, and they employ methods of the world rather than those of God's Word. Christians will remain immature and undiscerning.

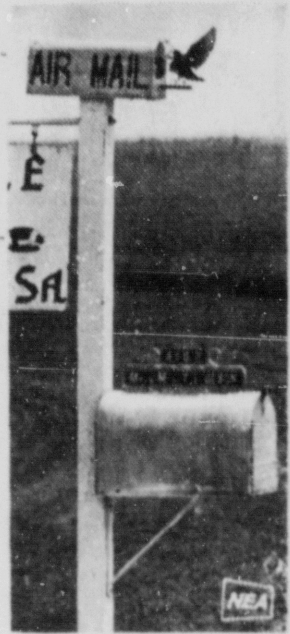

Walking in the flesh causes spiritual blindness. Disobedience of God's Word provokes the Holy Spirit because He refuses to forsake or contradict His Word. God commands "Be not drunk with wine, but be ye filled with the Spirit." "Are ye so foolish?" having begun in the Spirit, are ye now made perfect by the flesh?

Spiritual maturity comes like salvation, about which God says, "By grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God: Not of works lest any man should boast. Discerning Christians "grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ."

POLLY'S POINTERS

Iron-on Fabrics Cover Up Whiskers' Wear on Shirts

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I have a possible solution for Rene, whose husband's whiskers rub through the neckband between the collars and yokes on his wool shirts. Some of the iron-on fabrics which come in many colors are very durable and will adhere through many washings. Why not try ironing a strip on the worn part of one shirt and see how it works?—MRS. Mc

DEAR READERS—A thin wool probably would wear through quicker than a sturdy cotton if subject to constant friction. I suggest the possible use of a matching color cotton twill tape which should not be too noticeable.—POLLY

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—Do you or any of the readers know how one can lighten the color of a synthetic wig? Mine is dark auburn but I would prefer a medium auburn. Is it safe to use any kind of dye on these hair pieces?—MRS. J. D. B.

DEAR POLLY—If you are wondering about a gift for an older person who seems to have everything, consider a subscription to the local newspaper or a subscription to a magazine you think would be of interest to that particular person. My grandma loves this sort of gift.—CATHY

DEAR POLLY — We all know how hard it is to put on hose with rough hands, so wet your hands and dry them. While there is still some dampness left on them the hose will not be so easily snagged. Lotion also could be put on one's hands and rubbed in. Then the hose are put on more easily. Many little snags in hose will be saved.—GLENN

DEAR POLLY—The following Pointer saves me precious minutes when I am in a hurry. When I package cookie dough for the freezer I write on the freezer tape what kind of dough it is, the required baking temperature and the baking time. This saves having to look up the recipe to check on these things.—MRS. J. V.

Latin Ballots vs. Bullets

Costa Ricans go to the polls to elect a new president and congress on Sunday (Feb. 1).

To most North Americans a change in government in Latin America usually means revolution. But during 1970, six countries are scheduled to hold elections. These include Costa Rica and Chile — two of the region's leading democracies. The others are Mexico, Colombia, Guatemala and the Dominican Republic.

Despite the shadow of military dictatorship lengthening over the hemisphere, the Costa Rican and Chilean elections will be as representative as anything held in the United States.

But in addition to the countries holding elections, several others face the threat of violent change this year. Ecuador, Bolivia, Panama, Honduras, Haiti and El Salvador appear to be likely candidates for upheaval. Elections had been scheduled for Bolivia and Panama in 1970, but there is no sign when the military will permit them.

Two former presidents are trying to get back in office in Costa Rica. Jose Figueres, a charter member of the hemisphere's "democratic left" and President from 1953 to 1958, is picked to defeat Mario Echandi, conservative chief executive from 1958 to 1962. Working in Figueres' favor is the fact that independent-minded Costa Ricans don't like to keep political parties in power for more than one term. Echandi is the candidate of the current ruling coalition.

In Chile, another ex-President, Jorge Alessandri, who was chief executive from 1958 to 1964, is seeking office again at the opposite end of the hemisphere. The prognosis is that none of the five or six major candidates will win the majority needed for victory in the September elections. The Chilean Congress would choose between the two front-runners. The way will be open for wheeling and dealing that could cause political tremors, but few observers forecast a violent outcome.

This cannot be said of Guatemala where elections are to be held March 1. The Richard Alfred Latin American Service reports that "violence, never far from the surface in Guatemalan politics, once again stalks the streets of the capital." Three candidates are fighting to succeed President Julio Cesar Mendez Montenegro. Terrorists of the extreme right and extreme left would like to see a coup — the rightists to restore "law and order" and the leftists to unite the people against the military.

On May 19, Colombians will vote in an election in which Misael Pastrana Borrero, a former ambassador to the United States, is the favorite. In the Dominican Republic, President Joaquin Balaguer is still being coy about whether he will try to sidestep the constitution and succeed himself in the May elections. Mexicans go to the polls July 5 and Luis Echeverria Alvarez, candidate of the ruling Party of the Institutionalized Revolution is seen as a shoo-in. There has been no serious challenge in the PRI since the Mexican Revolution.

Perhaps the most significant thing about these forthcoming elections is that none of the likely winners represents the force that seems on the rise throughout the hemisphere: left-wing military nationalism with populist overtones as typified by the Peruvian regime of Gen. Juan Velasco Alvarado. But in an area where 19 governments were overthrown in a decade, anything can happen.

Network of Community Colleges Urged

CHICAGO (AP)—The Carnegie Commission on Higher Education proposed Thursday at least 250 community colleges be established within commuting distance of every student in the nation during the next decade.

The commission, a private research organization supported primarily by the Carnegie Corp. of New York, defined a community college as a two-year public institution offering academic, general, occupational and continuing adult education.

Community colleges are the fastest growing segment of American higher education, the commission said in a report, and the number of such institutions has more than doubled in the last 10 years.

About one-third of all undergraduates, or nearly 2 million students, are enrolled at the more than 1,000 community colleges across the nation, the report said.

The commission called for guaranteed admission and lower no-tuition policies in new public community colleges and urged that the institutions' programs be comprehensive.

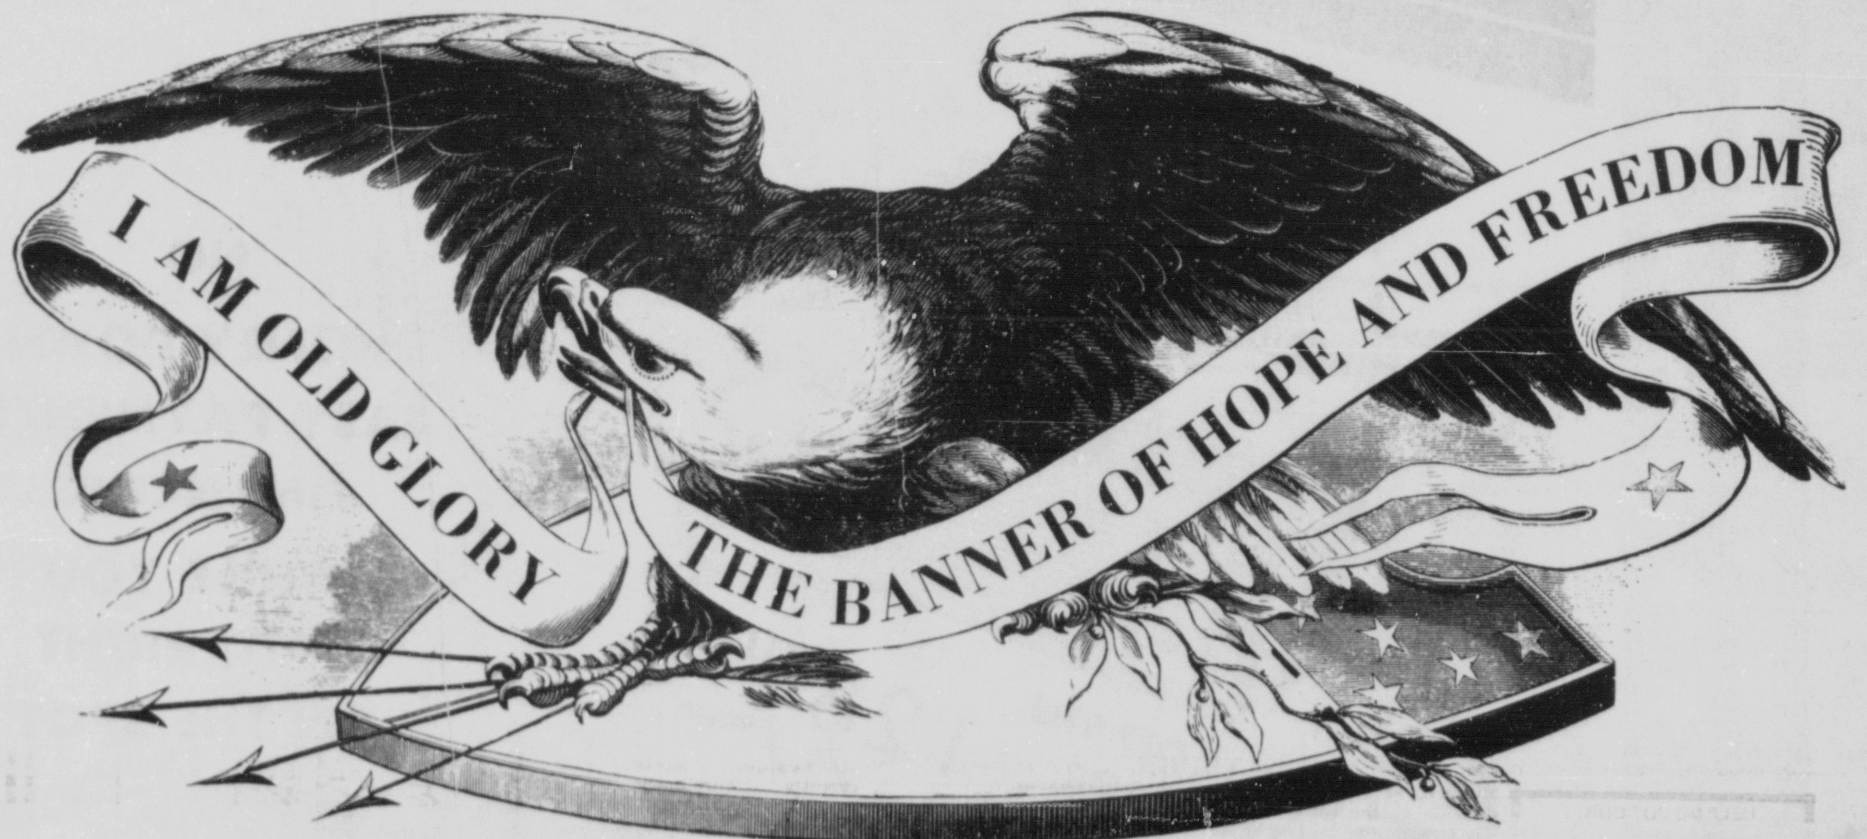

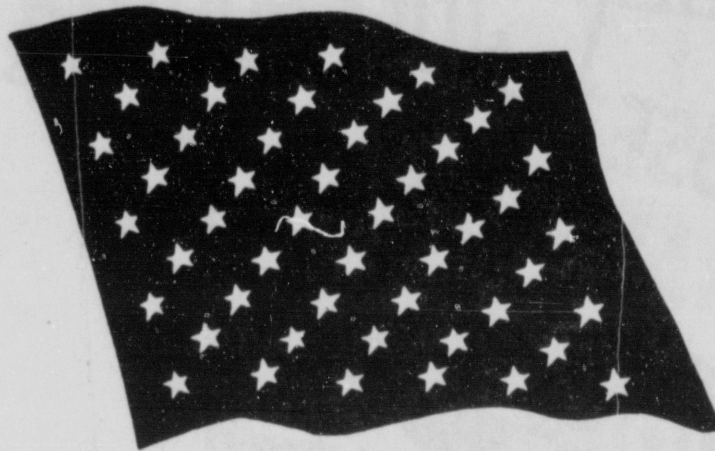

The commission said its estimates of the needs for new community colleges within the next decade were based on the assumption that existing two-year institutions will broaden their curricula to provide comprehensive programs.

"If this should not occur," it continued, "there would be a need for some 400 to 450 new community colleges by 1980, rather than only 230 to 250."

The study urged that top priority and adequate scholarship funds be given to students transferring from community to four-year colleges. It said it has found that only half as many transfer students as freshmen at four-year institutions receive financial aid.

SATURDAY JULY 4

I Am Old Glory: For more than nine score years I have been the banner of hope and freedom for generation after generation of Americans. Born amid the first flames of America's fight for freedom, I am the symbol of a country that has grown from a little group of thirteen colonies to a united nation of fifty* sovereign states. Planted firmly on the high pinnacle of American Faith my gently fluttering folds have proved an inspiration to untold millions. Men have followed me into battle with unwavering courage. They have looked upon me as a symbol of national unity. They have prayed that they and their fellow citizens might continue to enjoy the life, liberty and pursuit of happiness, which have been granted to every American as the heritage of free men. So long as men love liberty more than life itself; so long as they treasure the priceless privileges bought with the blood of our forefathers; so long as the principles of truth, justice and charity for all remain deeply rooted in human hearts, I shall continue to be the enduring banner of the United States of America.

Since antiquity, palm-reading has been a popular form of fortune-telling. Believers anxiously scan the palm's head line, heart line and fate line for clues to fame, fortune or disaster. The future, devotees of palmistry are convinced, is in your hands.

In an unintended sense, they may be right. Your helping hand, for instance, can build a bright future for millions who live in the shadow of eternal poverty, hunger and illness. They include hunger-stricken Biafrans blockaded by the Nigerian civil war... Asians tormented by malaria... ill-clad Americans shivering in icy High Andes. Globally, relief services assist over 40 million underprivileged, 70-plus have-not countries. You can join in this massive hands-across-the-sea gesture by contributing to the 24th annual American Catholic Overseas Aid Fund Appeal from March 1st through 8th. Your dollars will buy food, medicines and clothing and support self-help projects among impoverished people everywhere. whatever their race or religion. Send your contributions to Catholic Overseas Aid, Empire State Building, New York, N.Y.

Whatever your opinion of palmistry, for millions of the world's needy, the future is in your hands.

The Doctors' Case Against Pill

Medical Writer Bares Facts About "The Pill." It is time women stopped playing "biochemical roulette." This is the considered opinion of Barbara Seaman, a prominent medical writer whose book, THE DOCTORS' CASE AGAINST THE PILL, will be published as an Avon Special on April 15th.

Based on the findings of more than 100 highly qualified medical specialists, many of whom testified at the Nelson hearings, THE DOCTORS' CASE AGAINST THE PILL light in this blackout, Mrs. Seaman suggests, and she urges of oral contraceptives. They range from increased occurrence of blood clots, strokes, heart disease, diabetes, and cancer to depression, irritability, loss of sex drive, sterility, and increased incidence of miscarriage and congenital malformations in pregnancies following cessation of the pill. Numerous case studies and corroborative medical research support the "case."

In addition to these recognized side effects, Mrs. Seaman points out, there are suspected dangers which may, in time to come, prove more serious than those already confirmed. In a chapter entitled, "The Silence That Could Kill You," Mrs. Seaman remarks that "... the precise extent of the seriousness of the case against the pill, much like the precise status of the case against smoking cigarettes, is not yet final and conclusive. It is merely so strongly suggestive that women who have a free choice in their use of contraceptives... would be unwise to use the pill without their informed consent."

In his introduction to 'THE DOCTORS' CASE AGAINST THE PILL, Dr. Hugh J. Davis (Director of the Contraceptive Clinic, The Johns Hopkins School of Medicine) remarks, "Never in history have so many individuals confidently consumed such a powerful medication with so little information as to potential hazards and alternatives."

It is to provide women with the necessary information so that they can make an intelligent decision that Barbara Seaman has written THE DOCTORS' CASE AGAINST THE PILL and been an energetic crusader for the cause of bringing all the facts on the pill before the public.

The author was instrumental in bringing about the recent hearings on the pill before the Senate, and she testified at the Women's Liberation hearings on the pill. Her efforts have influenced the adoption of a warning leaflet to be included in all packages of oral contraceptive pills.

On the subject of the proposed leaflet, however, Mrs. Seaman is deeply concerned because, as reported by the Associated Press, the FDA, yielding to "pressure from physicians, drug manufacturers, and high Government officials," has toned down its warning considerably. The revised leaflet mentions only a single specific danger from oral contraceptive use and omits detailed suggestions on when women using the pill should see a physician.

"Powerful interest groups have deprived women of their right to make an intelligent selection of their own birth control method," Mrs. Seaman observes. "The choice," she points out, "is not between the pill and pregnancy. There are... effective alternatives to the pill (and Mrs. Seaman discusses them in THE DOCTORS' CASE AGAINST THE PILL), but information

THE '71 BUDGET AND WELFARE

The $200.8 billion federal budget submitted by President Nixon will receive the closest scrutiny in the weeks ahead and properly so. White House spending proposals provide valuable clues as to the determination and basic goals of an administration.

The political heirs of the New Frontier and Great Society express dissatisfaction with the Nixon budget for fiscal '71. They call for even larger outlays for welfare and deeper cuts in national defense. The ultra-liberal Washington Post has characterized the huge spending proposal as "austere." It would be fascinating to know what the Post would consider an expansive budget.

Conservatives, in examining the budget, certainly won't find much austerity in the document. In fact, they are likely to be very displeased by the major programs embodied in the budget. Furthermore they also certainly will be concerned about the proposed change in defense spending.

While many conservatives expected the Nixon administration to curb spending for giveaways, the '71 budget shows that welfare programs will be greatly boosted. The Office of Economic Opportunity, one of the biggest wasters of taxpayers' money, is scheduled to receive a $40 million spending increase to nearly $2 billion. The OEO budget provides $63.2 million for the highly political Neighbor Legal Services division. Under this program, OEO lawyers have been harassing state and local governments, filing suits against municipal housing authorities and other grassroots agencies. In view of strong, bipartisan, conservative objections to the legal services program, it is both significant and disturbing that the administration has proposed this increase.

The controversial Department of Health, Education and Welfare will receive an incredible $7 billion spending boost to $52.7 billion in fiscal 1971. Some $500 million of this will go to launch the Family Assistance plan, the family subsidy plan that the administration envisions as the future welfare system. No one can say, however, how much this plan will cost.

The likelihood is that it will grow and grow as the agriculture subsidy program mushroomed in the last generation. Understandably, the Family Assistance program already has received heavy criticism from citizens concerned about the increasing cost of government services and the tendency towards socialism in America.

The enormous increase in spending for HEW surely won't sit with the increasing number of Americans who see that agency as an instrument for restructuring of American society along radical lines. HEW is constantly interfering with the rights of states, local communities and parents in trying to impose its own patterns of thought and behavior on the American people. The latest example of HEW interference is a directive to universities in North Carolina and Virginia, in effect ordering them to alter their admissions policies.

While HEW gains $7 billion for its controversial programs, spending for the defense of the United States is to be cut $5.2 billion. The Wall Street Journal reports that the '71 defense budget "is the smallest military spending plan since fiscal 1967 in actual dollars, the smallest since fiscal 1951 as a percentage of the gross national product and the smallest since 1950 as a percentage of the total federal budget."

If foreign dangers to the United States were on the downgrade, this reduction in the defense establishment would be desirable. But many citizens may express bewilderment at the cutback at a time when the Soviet Union is surging ahead in military preparations, creating new missile weapons and building a fleet to wrest naval supremacy from the United States.

It seems only logical that if spending must be cut, it should be in the area of giveaways, not national defense. Yet the '71 budget clearly shows that defense suffers while welfare programs are padded. It certainly doesn't make sense for an administration that appeals to realistic conservatives for support. Certainly, defense spending should be geared to security requirements and to enemy threats, not to the furor created by anti-preparedness elements or to the demands of liberals for a mammoth extension of welfareism.

Examining the spending proposed for HEW, OEO and other welfare agencies and sectors, it is pretty clear that the Nixon administration does not intend to dismantle the structure or the program of the Johnson Great Society. On the contrary, this structure is being given permanency. Yet the reason conservatives voted for Mr. Nixon is that they expected him to dismantle the welfareism that weakens the United States. It is important, therefore, that the White House know conservatives are both disappointed and deeply concerned.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

We must always aim at those things that bring peace, and that help strengthen one another. (Romans 14:19, TEV)

PRAYER: Eternal God, friend of the friendless, joy of the lonely, strength of the weary, come among us to be our guide in our human relationships. May we offer others the highest and best and not allow any degrading influence to master our hearts or issue from them. In Christ's name. Amen.

If You Were the Judge: No Recourse from Shade Tree Damage

By Jack Strauss, L.L.B.
Hiram's neighbor had a shade tree in his back yard that grew as if it had an overactive pituitary gland. And, while Hiram might not have minded resting in the shade of Raquel Welch, having his whole house gradually shaded by his neighbor's tree was depressing him something awful.

In fact, living in what seemed to be a total eclipse of the sun finally got to him. Feeling a sense of the sinister from the ever present shadows, Hiram demanded in court that his neighbor be ordered to cut down the tree.

"Aside from the fact that I feel as if I live in the twilight zone," he told the judge, "the shadows from the tree keep my house dark, dank and damp. It's totally unhealthy."

"It's too bad about him," was the neighbor's answer. "But that tree has been growing on my property for 30 years and I'm not going to harm a leaf on any of its limbs. They're like family heirlooms."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the neighbor cut down his prolific shade tree?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that a person has a right to plant shade trees on his property or even cover it with a thick forest. And, concluded the judge, shadows cast by such trees do not create a violation of a neighbor's rights. It's an example of a situation where a person can be injured and have no recourse. (Based upon a 1961 Illinois Appellate Court Decision)

Air Pollution Blots Out Sun

NEW YORK — "This country generates between one-half and one-third of all the world's air pollution," and already we have "hung a veil of dirty air over the earth that cuts off twenty per cent of the sunlight." We are literally blotting out the sun.

This is the warning voiced by Robert Reinow and Leona Train Reinow, in an article to appear in the July issue of AUDUBON, the magazine of the National Audubon Society. Air pollution out of business because the plants can't survive in the bad air, and every county in that "garden state" is suffering some plant crop damage. In California, experiments show that oranges grown in fresh air are twice the size of those grown in polluted air. Orchids can no longer survive in any metropolitan area in California and florists in at least three midwestern and eastern states lost poinsettia crops last fall because of the pollution. Trees, too, even those distant from cities, are turning yellow and dying because of the drifting clouds of urban smog that may travel 100 miles.

The Reinows' article is an eloquent plea for action now, only places where there really is "clean air" left in the U.S. are "a few mountaintops and isolated pockets."

And while we worry about the ability of the world to feed its expanding population in coming years, we might well worry right now about the fact that our own ability to supply food today is being curtailed by air pollution. The New Jersey spinach industry is just about out of business because the plants can't survive in the bad air, and every county in that "garden state" is suffering some plant crop damage. In California, experiments show that oranges grown in fresh air are twice the size of those grown in polluted air. Orchids can no longer survive in any metropolitan area in California and florists in at least three midwestern and eastern states lost poinsettia crops last fall because of the pollution. Trees, too, even those distant from cities, are turning yellow and dying because of the drifting clouds of urban smog that may travel 100 miles.

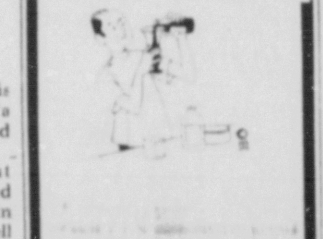

while the effects of air pollution are still reversible. With atmospheric pollution, we probably won't have a dramatic emergency to spur us into action — just a continuous gradual increase in the pollution index until the noxious fumes from autos, smokestacks, furnaces and incinerators make a new climate that all our efforts cannot change. Once the vital process of photosynthesis in plants stops, it will be literally the end of the world for mankind, too.

As an expert warned the Reinows: "If we keep on polluting the air at our present rate, we will have shut off fifty per cent of the sun in another ten years. And 'in twenty years we shall find ourselves in global gloom' with no hope of survival."

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Monday, June 29, the 31st day of 1970. There are 136 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1961, the British arrested more than 2700 Jews in Palestine on grounds they were terrorists.

On this date: In 1577, the Flemish painter Peter Paul Rubens was born. In 1776, Patrick Henry became governor of Virginia. In 1890, France took control of the South Pacific island of Tahiti. In 1941, former Polish PM, X MIER Ignace Paderewski died in New York at age 81. In 1963, in the Pacific war, American forces landed on New Georgia Island in the Solomons. In 1969, North Vietnam's capital, Hanoi, and the principal port, Haiphong, were hit by U.S. bombers for the first time in the Vietnam war.

TSUNAMIS AGO — The Cuban government seized an American-owned oil refinery in Santiago de Cuba. Five years ago — American paratroopers and South Vietnamese soldiers took part in their first joint operation against the Communists. One year ago — A Canadian plane with 20 persons aboard made a safe landing in Ireland after an engine burst and sent debris flying into the fuselage.

Jockey Eddie Belmonte has had two mounts in the Belmont Stakes. He was third with Dike in 1969 and third again this year with Naskra.

Laws to Observe? Ethical Hang-up

By DAVID POLING

A letter from a reader in Ohio brought a truckload of difficult questions the other day. It is a highly representative document, giving us a clue to the ethical hang-ups being experienced within the contemporary church. The writer says directly:

"Over the past 18 months our pastor has repeatedly stated that, we should obey only the laws we ourselves feel in our hearts to be just . . . and feel free to break the rest."

"He never tells us explicitly which laws are just or unjust. Once our adult class asked him point-blank, and he just shrugged, laughed and said,

"That's the $64 question! Each person must determine that for himself."

"So, as an experiment, our class teacher had us list which laws we, as adults, felt we were morally free to break as unjust. There were 27 in our class and I tabulated the results as follows:

1—Draft laws	20
2—Laws against property	17
3—Laws against robbery	23
4—Laws against personal injury	7
5—Laws against perjury	27
6—Building and zoning codes	27

"These are not hoodlums or lawbreakers as such, but upstanding citizens interested enough in church to attend Bible classes. So when even a small group could agree unanimously on only two of 12 laws (the laws against perjury and zoning!) how on earth can each man decide for himself which law is so unjust that Christ would command him to break it?"

Every Christian community has maintained and supported the concept that the individual believer owed allegiance to a higher law—that of loyalty to God and the dictates of conscience. Generally, Christians have been active, diligent members of the society in which they find themselves. This means "law abiding" and devoted followers of the prevailing code of conduct. Christians have agreed that when one breaks the law or goes against accepted norms he must be prepared to pay the consequences.

Our reader is surprised that her church school class is ready to tear up the strictures of society should the circumstances require it. Are we all so convinced that church members are beyond the temptations, seductions and sins of the general society? Indeed, the church has a towering ideal to follow in the Holy Bible and in the history of the Faith, but that is no guarantee of perfection or sainthood. Is this why Jesus turned from law to love?

Car Topics

If you have been putting up with a not-so-hot heater in your car this winter, it may be an indication of damage to more than your good disposition.

Your car's heater derives its heat from the water that circulates through the cooling system. When that water is too cool to warm your tooties, it probably means your engine is suffering from the cold, too.

The usual cause of overheating is the wrong thermostat or one that isn't working right. The net effect will be felt in your pocketbook and otherwise.

Most immediately, you will find your gasoline bills rising over and above the normal cold weather increase when your coke is working overtime. The longer your coke is on, the greater your gas consumption.

If the engine is running even colder than you expect it to in the winter, the overworked choke really inflates your gasoline bills. And all because of a defective thermostat.

Then there is oil dilution, leading to sludge formation. Sound ominous? It is to an engine.

In a cold engine, fuel doesn't vaporize well, tends to seep in liquid form down into the engine oil, instead of burning in the cylinder. This, plus water formed by condensation in the cold engine, reduces the lubricating qualities of the oil.

In freezing weather conditions, lubrication can be a particularly critical factor. An engine is designed to run quite hot, and all metal parts are designed with this heat in mind.

As we all remember from junior high school science class, metal expands with heat and contracts with cold. So a cold engine has a lot of slightly loose parts that need the best lubrication possible to prevent rapid wear.

The final horror of the cold engine is the fouling of spark plugs, which may ensue. Plugs fire poorly, foul rapidly and compound the inefficiency problem.

Fouled plugs, rapid wear of engine parts and inefficient engine operation result in a condition that has become more critical than cold feet or tight budgets. It's air pollution, because this kind of engine kicks a lot of unwanted smoke out of the exhaust pipe.

Enough reasons for checking on your thermostat? See about yours right away.

Opinions Conflict on Natural Gas Availability

MALDEN — Conflicting opinions were presented Monday night to the City Council regarding the availability of natural gas should Malden purchase the gas system from Associated Natural Gas Company.

L. P. McSpadden of Blytheville, an official of Ark-Mo Power Company which owns Associated Natural Gas, advised the Council that natural gas is becoming increasingly hard to buy. He said that his company was attempting to buy more gas now, but that additional gas is unavailable.

He said that should Malden follow through with its intentions of purchasing and operating its own gas system that they are likely to have a big problem of securing gas. "We don't want to sell the system," said McSpadden, "but I advise you to check into the availability of gas before you get too deeply involved."

Norval Wallen, representative of a bonding firm who has been advising city officials, contradicted McSpadden's statement. He said that should Malden purchase the gas system that the Federal Power Commission will take the gas allotment away from Associated and give it to Malden. Wallen's statement was made after the gas company officials had left the meeting and a response was not available.

Jack Germaine, another official of Associated, said that his company was not in a position yet to give Malden a firm asking price for the gas company facilities here. He said that the average investment per customer was about $400 and that they had approximately 1,800 customers in Malden. This would be an estimated asking price of $720,000.

Should Malden follow through on the purchase of the gas facilities the Public Service Commission will determine the final compensation to be paid Associated.

The cost would be financed through revenue bonds and would necessitate a vote of the people to approve the bond issue.

Interstate Has No Connection with Bankrupt Firm

KANSAS CITY — Interstate Brands Corporation, which markets a line of cake and sweet roll products under the Dolly Madison label, has no connection with Dolly Madison Industries of Philadelphia which has filed Chapter 10 bankruptcy proceedings.

A spokesman for IBC, which is headquartered and is one of the nation's leading wholesale bakers, said the company wished to clarify the situation for its customers and investors.

"We have had a series of calls from concerned customers," the spokesman said, "and we want to assure them that our line of Dolly Madison cakes and sweet roll products will not be affected by or involved in the action of this Philadelphia-based firm."
